

CELTIC FOLKTRONICA

For over a decade, Scott Sterling has been weaving rhythm, melody, and line as Drumspyder, exploring the Celtic and British Islands folk ways in vital contemporary expressions.

He brings a deep love of rhythm to his distinctive style of percussion-driven dance music. An expert percussionist specializing in tamborines and framedrums, he weaves together intricate hand percussion and bass-heavy production into finely sculpted grooves, equally inspirational to the dancefloor and the on-stage performer. Drawing influences from the traditional Folk, Medieval, and Renaissance music of the British Islands, his music is a unique alchemy of musical traditions, energetic tribal rhythms, and archaic pagan atmosphere.

As a visual artist, he is developing an intricate and elegant style of painting, ink drawing and vector design. He is inspired by Celtic Insular and Medieval styles, and brings them into the present age to illuminate themes of the Anglo-Saxon and Celtic spiritual traditions.

BOOKING CONTACTS

North America:

Setesh Freeman / Reciprocity Music
setesh@reciprocitymusic.world
<https://www.reciprocitymusic.world>

Outside North America:

Rich Potter / Midnight Mango
rich@midnightmango.co.uk
<https://www.midnightmango.co.uk>

Website: www.drumsydey.com

Facebook: facebook.com/drumsydeymusic

Instagram: instagram.com/drumsydey

Soundcloud: soundcloud.com/drumsydey

Downloads: Hi-Res photos and Logos: www.drumsydey.com/booking

